

In 2013, the four members of Pathfinders Project started a yearlong international service trip in search of the best location to launch the Humanist Service Corps. The Pathfinders spent a month in each of 11 project locations, contributing no less than 6,000 hours of service with community-centered partner organizations on education, human rights, poverty abatement, and water sustainability projects. This enabled the Pathfinders to put humanist theory into practice while evaluating partner organizations. Equipped with the lessons learned by the Pathfinders, Foundation Beyond Belief is now poised to select one of the Pathfinders Project locations and expand the partnership from the one month exploratory venture to a multiple-year commitment.

Beginning in the summer of 2015, Humanist Service Corps members will put their values into action abroad and strengthen their leadership skills through intercultural exchange. Volunteers will learn from local citizens about the problems they face and work with those citizens to develop and implement sustainable solutions.
